Civic Numbers on Businesses

Properly displaying the civic number on your business ensures that emergency responders for fire, ambulance, and police can easily find your store front.

Seeing civic numbers clearly posted in busy commercial areas help first responders avoid delays in reaching someone in your workplace who is in serious trouble. Business owners or property owners are responsible for ensuring the buildings civic number is clearly visible from the street. The civic number ensures that emergency services responsible for finding your business can do so easily to save the lives of your employees, customers or your property.
